

Historical consciousness is not enough. Cultural consciousness requires that we not only know our history but also have a psychological and sociological awareness. Knowing our history is just one move on the planetary game of chess between African and European peoples. Recognizing what his-story has done to our psyche and why we are still psychologically enslaved is another. The Isis Papers centers learning. It creates a firm foundation to build historical knowledge.